

the ONE where I've been Abandoned

by Guru Mani H

You always were my trusted friend on whom I could rely you've stuck with me through thick and thin and seen me laugh and cry but when a crisis hit me it all become too much and when I tried to contact you refused to keep in touch

I thought I knew my mother until the day she said that I had been adopted [I nearly dropped down dead] but now I know the shocking truth my mum left me to die there's now an urge to find her and ask the question: 'why?'

I really felt at last I was accepted by the crowd a sense of such belonging which made me feel so proud but when I questioned strongly the path that we were on they simply pushed me out the group [so now I don't belong]

I hoped we'd be together until the day of death forever as a couple until our final breath but when you said "It's over" and wouldn't change your mind my whole world simply fell apart no solace could I find

I thought we were like sisters so when you moved away I knew deep down within my heart our friendship would not sway but now you have forgotten that special bond we share it hurts so much to see you act like you don't really care

I thought my spirit guru was different than the rest that through all seasons of my life he would in me invest but sad to say he joined the scores of others I have known who when they didn't like my course just left me all alone

I'd given loyal service as a faithful employee with years of dedication working overtime for free but when some problems came along instead of give support it shocked me when they coldly said “Your contract we’ll abort”

They tell me: ‘Don’t abandon’ but speak without the facts it makes them point and judge me about the way I act but there’s a bigger picture that makes me walk away it’s better for my mental health if I no longer stay

I always hoped my god would be forever by my side that even when the times were tough he would with me reside but now my soul has darkened my spirit is so dry it feels like god has left me but I’ve no idea why

My parents always had the role of ‘anchor’ to my life until the day I found my dad in bed with neighbour’s wife but rather stay and face it he simply walked away though time again I begged him to change his mind and stay

If you've abandoned someone but now feel it was wrong
"Sorry" sometimes means that you can write a different song but though your actions to restore flow deep from in your heart the pain the other person feels may still keep you apart
